

The right to view your data

You can access your personal data free of charge.

The right to be informed

You should know and understand what happens with your data and why.

The right to be forgotten

Without a 'compelling reason' to keep your data, then an organisation must delete it.

The right to move your data

You can obtain and reuse your personal data with other services and providers.

The right to say no

You can stop direct marketing and data processing when there's no 'compelling reason' to do it.

The right to limit how your data is used

You can block and put restrictions on how your data is used if it's inaccurate or unnecessary.

The right to make changes to your data

You can update any data about you that's out of date or false.

The right to human-made decision making

Users can stop automated decisions being made about them if it has legal or significant consequences.

